When you first access our homepage you will not see much, as there has been no post so you will see that under recent posts, all it says is no posts. On our header, you will see our logo with the name of our website, FishTalk. And on the left side of this, you will see the navigation bar to the home page which you are currently on and the login/register page where you can sign in or register for the page.

This is what our page looks like when people post on it. You can see the different user icons applied as well as the likes on certain posts and the timestamp of when the post was made. As a guess you cannot like the post but you can still view them.

This is what the home page will look like when you sign in with your account. You can see that the recent post shifts to the left side of the page and on the right side there is a create new post section where you can post something new. You can also see that you can delete new your old posts using the trash button, but you cannot like your own post. There is also an emoji button, which if you click you can access multiple emojis to express your emotions.

When you click the login button, it will lead you to the login page. If you have a username you can just login but if you can't you can hit "register here" to create a username

If you enter a username that does not exist, then it will send an error message telling the user that the message does not exist. If you are trying to register a name and it already exists, then it will take you back to the login page and give you an error message that tells you that the username is already taken.
